DAILY RECORD-UNION

CITY OFFICIAL PAPER.

FRIDAY JUNE 11, 1886

The RECORD-UNION is the only paper on the coast, outside of San Francisco, that receives the full Associated Press despatches from all parts of the world. Inside of San Francisco it has no competitor, in point of manpower in its house and general circulation throughout the coast.

SAN FRANCISCO AGENCY.

J. P. FISHER is Sole Agent for this paper in San Francisco and vicinity. He is authorized to receive advertisements and subscriptions and to collect for the same. Room 21 and 22, Ste. Quandt's Exchange.

NEWS OF THE MORNING.

REBELLION.—A bill was introduced in the Legislature caused great excitement in Avignon, France. Queen Victoria has consented that Parliament be dissolved....King Ludwig of Bavaria has been declared insane, and Prince Luitpold, his uncle, has assumed the Regency....Silver in London, 45d; corns, 102½; 4s, 125½; 3s, sterling, $4.87 1/4; silver bars, $34.

WASHINGTON.—The Congress of Washington has passed the estate tax of 1 per cent on estates larger than $100,000. The President has approved it. The nomination of Possey S. Wilcox, to be Assayer of the Mint at Denver, Col., has been rejected by the Senate.

PLATE COAST.—Anthony Fox met with a horrible death at Virginia, Nev. A fire at the Chico race track destroyed the grand stand, eating houses, stables and three horses. A fire which started at 10 o'clock, cost $3,000....The sudden death of J. C. Warren, an old resident, is announced from Redwood City....Ex-Mayor S. P. Clark, of Santa Rosa, is dead.

A TERRIBLE INDICTMENT.

The time was when it was left to the independent press to denounce political ward bossism. It has come to pass, however, that men of independence within party have had the courage to do the same. Here we have Colonel Stuart M. Taylor, a Federal officeholder in San Francisco, a prominent Democrat, and a man of known probity and tried integrity, standing up in a Democratic meeting in San Francisco, Wednesday night, and scoring bossism as never a journal in the land dared to do. Taylor, who is a power in his party, singled out Buckley, a prominent boss of the Democracy, and said:

In the interest of his fellow-citizens taxpayers and non-taxpayers, he stood up there fearlessly and in the interest of common right, and in the interest of the people, against the villainous system which polluted the political system. He stood there to denounce the party which was the gang who are trading on the corruption of a litigious office. When a pirate attacked a ship it is well to aid and assist until the practical marauders were hustled into the deep. There was no figure of speech; he would stand up there to give them facts and figures. He would read to them the truth of things which would disclose a state of things in their midst which would stand on end. He would startle the public with some facts and figures which would be no doubt whatever.

The report of the committee of the San Francisco Supervisors on the condition and management of the House of Correction is a remarkable document. The committee recommend the instant abolishment of the institution. They say that it is simply a means to the gain and ambition of political bosses, a political machine, run in the interests of the people, a source of crime and offense, and altogether a shame and a disgrace. This is the frank confession we have ever known politicians make, for it must be remembered that this committee is of the governing body that manages this House of Correction. It amounts, therefore, to an admission of incompetency. But it is true. No reformatory institution of any kind whatever can possibly be operated properly, when subjected to political control. It is a truism, that a good Superintendent or Warden must be given the power of appointing his subordinates. In the case in hand it is not permitted to do this, and as a result the members of the Board of Supervisors parcel out the offices among their political friends and masters, and those hold themselves independent of the Warden, and thus make his official station farcical. This is one of the cases wherein divorce of municipal government from party politics should be absolute. It ought to extend also to water, gas, school, asylum, street, sewer, and the like municipal branches.

The riots in Ireland seem to have had no immediate cause, or anything of the appearance of excuse for their outbreak. They appear to have been the result of the blood-money of men who are filling offices and from whose wages this vanquished crew may ought to be driven.

To what are we coming in politics if justice is to be done? Men are now so debased by men and methods such as these that they do not apply you to think of them, to come in free America when I recollect these facts.

Ex-Judge Ferral followed in a similar strain, though less importance is to be attached to his arraignment of bosses. He, however, declared that unless bosom let go of San Francisco, a vigilance committee might be expected to rise up and inaugurate a bloody reform. All this occurs within Democratic lines, and may prove fruitful of Republican victory in San Francisco. But it has an importance reaching beyond party concern. It becomes the business of all citizens when the party charged is in control of any part of government machinery. It therefore behoves citizens to consider whether there is of verity in all this. Taylor is a man of truth. He is not open to the charge of exaggeration, or of trumping up charges for effect. He evidently believes what he says, and belief with so capable and bold a public man as he is not a matter of suddenness. If Municipal and State politics are controlled to as vile ends as these men named charge against the bosses—so open-handed, chivalric leaders, but selling and trading bosses—as these masters control affairs as is charged, there has come the time when reform must be worked, and that right speedily. If this control is as absolute as is alleged by Taylor and Ferral in their party, which dominates San Francisco and the State, then a democratic form of government is at an end practically, and can only be restored by partisans taking back the control of party into their own hands. The simple question and the only one is, will they do it?

GOVERNMENT INTERVENTION.

"Action by Government," was what was demanded in the river destruction debate long ago. It was for governmental interference that the RECORD-UNION so long pleaded. It has been decided by the United States Attorney-General that the Secretary of War could not bring an action to prevent the dumping of debris into the navigable streams; but the same officer also decided that information in chancery could be filed, or legislation had to stop the filling up of the California rivers by artificial processes. The people do not care a fig what department takes action, nor just what legal method is invoked, so long as governmental interference in some form is made to stop the destruction of the navigable streams in this State. It may now be taken as settled that the Govern-

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

All Sacramentoans who use hydraulic water for sprinkling lawns and foliage, and for fountain purposes, are sighing and praying for clear water from mountains or elsewhere. It's a muddy subject at present, but should be made clearer.

An intelligent gentleman residing in this city, who was born in the north of Ireland and resided there for many years, states that the present difficulties, which show the Protestant population of that country as strongly belligerent towards those who favor home rule, are not true, but are overcolored and doctored to win sympathy and favor of the public.

Hon. C. F. McLaughlin is Chairman of the State Executive Committee of the Non-Partisan Anti-Chinese Association of California. He was elected to this position when he was editor of the Truckee Republican. While many other papers have insisted from the commencement of the recent anti-Chinese crusade, that the only purpose of the Chinese is to obtain employment by reliable white help to take the place of the Chinese, before the bouncing business of the latter was entered upon, the present situation shows that the Chinese are strongly belligerent towards those who favor home rule, are not true, but are overcolored and doctored to win sympathy and favor of the public.

The sadie-train privileges, which have been for years granted to Knapp & Kinney, and the licenses of guides were renewed by the Committee on Privileges and Accounts, and were found to be cor-

THE TRAIL FROM GLACIER POINT.

It was decided to complete the trail from Glacier Point by Tuolumne River, and Vernal Falls to Knapp & Kinney's Hotel as soon as possible. This will give a pleasant and easy trail along the rim of the valley from Glacier Point to Vernal and Neva Falls, and the most direct descent from the high land into the valley. By this route the disagreeable descent from Glacier Point will be avoided, and there can be easily two days in one day what now requires two days of hard work.

The Commissioners examined the proposed sites for the new hotel which is to be erected. One of the sites recommended was opposite Yerba Buena Falls, between Fourth and Fifth Streets, and between First and Second Streets, and between Lyon's Art Gallery and Leading's Hotel, one opposite Bridal Veil Fall.

HOTEL SITE SELECTED.

THE "DAILY BEE" IN AN ARTICLE headed, "Barbary Sheep Machines" gives a brief account of the various kinds of sheep traps which are used in the amphitheater in the upper part of the valley, opposite Glacier Wall, and within easy walk of the lake and the castles of the Merced river.

Work upon the hotel will be commenced as soon as possible. Machinery for the saw and planing will be obtained by the contractor for the hotel, and it will be a good opportunity for him to get a large number of men who have been furnished with a cook that has proved worthless, says: "If those who are willing to work for us will be sent upon by such vagrants, the cause must soon fall into disarray. The real worthlessness of these vagrants is evident to all, and it should be asked to leave town in a way that could not be done."

It will be a good opportunity for him to get a large number of men who have been furnished with a cook that has proved worthless, says: "If those who are willing to work for us will be sent upon by such vagrants, the cause must soon fall into disarray. The real worthlessness of these vagrants is evident to all, and it should be asked to leave town in a way that could not be done."

Supply the sensible plan of procuring reliable white help before bouncing the Mongolians should now be adopted as the Executive Committee's policy, or else Mr. McLaughlin should insist that the Republican and Democrat publish such pertinent and damaging remarks.

California Wines.

Charles A. Wetmore, the Chief Executive Officer of the California State Wine and Spirit Importers and F. P. Polkson were present at the meeting of the Council of Wine and Spirits Traders' Society on the 10th inst.

The main objects of Mr. Wetmore's presentation were the following: 1. The wine issue.

These were discussed by Mr. Wetmore and the council, and it was shown that the views of the society regarding the points at issue were practically the same as his.

Mr. Wetmore showed some exceedingly interesting samples of California wines. None of them were entirely free from the usual faults of these wines, but they showed a decided improvement over previous samples that have hitherto been shown him, and it was generally agreed by the members of the council present that the products of California will soon prove themselves formidable competitors to some of the European vintages.

The samples were of young wines that are yet produced in only very small quantities, but Mr. Wetmore informs us that the number of vineyards is increasing rapidly and it is to be expected that the number of vines will double in a few years.

He does not, however, look to foreign markets for a large consumption, but expects to make a market among people that will make the demand for drinkable wines quite large enough to carry off the total production. There is ample room for this, for if one people drank as much as the rest of the world, it would not be enough to supply the entire world.

Mr. Wetmore informed the Council that some who would produce nearly the same wine wherever planted, and hence he expects in the course of a very few years to produce wines in California well up to the best growths of the Gironde and the Rhone.

His remarks were very interesting and instructive, and although we cannot entirely agree with him in all his views, we think that he is right in his conclusion that can be taken under the circumstances. His efforts cannot fail to result in doing an immense deal of good to the cause of American wines, and we assure him that his efforts will be appreciated.

The brandies that were presented from the gentlemen present a still more unqualified approbation than did the wines. —Bonfond's Wine and Spirit Circular.

Fever and Ague.

C. Freeland, Hackensack, N. J., February 25, 1885, writes that he was troubled with Fever and Ague for over two years. Quinine would not cure him, though he took it in doses of 10 grains every day for a year. His physician advised him to take a dose of Calomel every day, which soon brought him into health again.

He was there to tell the facts, to reveal the truth—the plain truth—and when he said that he had been cured when he said that the time had arrived when he could stand on his feet again, it was stamped out from their midst.

The speaker then proceeded section by section to indict the boss referred to, in such a manner and with such particularity, as has never been equalled. He charged him with attempting to corrupt Courts by "fixing juries;" with dishonestly getting wealth; with betraying his party; with debasing the tickets by substituting scratched ones used by his tools; with exacting portions of the salaries of officials under obligation to him; with secret connection with high crimes and misdemeanors; with swinging the lash of the political slave master; with trading to his own gain municipal patronage and official station, and he fortified many of his statements by affidavits which he read, but declined to give the names of the witnesses to the public in order to shield them from the wrath of the boss whom he frequently denounced as an "unconvicted felon." In concluding he said:

I respect a man who makes his money in legitimate business, but I loathe worse than a swindler who makes his money from the blood-money of men who are filling offices and from whose wages this vanquished crew may ought to be driven.

To what are we coming in politics if justice is to be done? Men are now so debased by men and methods such as these that they do not apply you to think of them, to come in free America when I recollect these facts.

Twenty-four Hours To Live.

C. Freeland, Hackensack, N. J., February 25, 1885, writes that he was troubled with Fever and Ague for over two years. Quinine would not cure him, though he took it in doses of 10 grains every day for a year. His physician advised him to take a dose of Calomel every day, which soon brought him into health again.

He was there to tell the facts, to reveal the truth—the plain truth—and when he said that he had been cured when he said that the time had arrived when he could stand on his feet again, it was stamped out from their midst.

The speaker then proceeded section by section to indict the boss referred to, in such a manner and with such particularity, as has never been equalled. He charged him with attempting to corrupt Courts by "fixing juries;" with dishonestly getting wealth; with betraying his party; with debasing the tickets by substituting scratched ones used by his tools; with exacting portions of the salaries of officials under obligation to him; with secret connection with high crimes and misdemeanors; with swinging the lash of the political slave master; with trading to his own gain municipal patronage and official station, and he fortified many of his statements by affidavits which he read, but declined to give the names of the witnesses to the public in order to shield them from the wrath of the boss whom he frequently denounced as an "unconvicted felon." In concluding he said:

Ex-Judge Ferral followed in a similar strain, though less importance is to be attached to his arraignment of bosses. He, however, declared that unless bosom let go of San Francisco, a vigilance committee might be expected to rise up and inaugurate a bloody reform. All this occurs within Democratic lines, and may prove fruitful of Republican victory in San Francisco. But it has an importance reaching beyond party concern. It becomes the business of all citizens when the party charged is in control of any part of government machinery. It therefore behoves citizens to consider whether there is of verity in all this. Taylor is a man of truth. He is not open to the charge of exaggeration, or of trumping up charges for effect. He evidently believes what he says, and belief with so capable and bold a public man as he is not a matter of suddenness. If Municipal and State politics are controlled to as vile ends as these men named charge against the bosses—so open-handed, chivalric leaders, but selling and trading bosses—as these masters control affairs as is charged, there has come the time when reform must be worked, and that right speedily. If this control is as absolute as is alleged by Taylor and Ferral in their party, which dominates San Francisco and the State, then a democratic form of government is at an end practically, and can only be restored by partisans taking back the control of party into their own hands. The simple question and the only one is, will they do it?

GOVERNMENT INTERVENTION.

"Action by Government," was what was demanded in the river destruction debate long ago. It was for governmental interference that the RECORD-UNION so long pleaded. It has been decided by the United States Attorney-General that the Secretary of War could not bring an action to prevent the dumping of debris into the navigable streams; but the same officer also decided that information in chancery could be filed, or legislation had to stop the filling up of the California rivers by artificial processes. The people do not care a fig what department takes action, nor just what legal method is invoked, so long as governmental interference in some form is made to stop the destruction of the navigable streams in this State. It may now be taken as settled that the Govern-

Yosemite Valley.

Improvement Ordered by the Commissioners.

The Yosemite Valley Commissioners held an important meeting in the valley last week. There were present Commissioners Stoner, Madolen, Mills, and May of San Francisco; O'Brien and Stockton, and Chapman of Fresno. The architect and contractor of the new hotel were invited to be present and attended the meeting.

The bridge across the Merced river is to be completed as soon as possible.
